REPAIR COSTS

No repairer has been identified and no estimate has been obtained for repairing the vehicle but we have calculated the costs involved for such a repair and we consider that a reasonable nett repair cost would amount to £6,338.50, subject to any hidden damage. This suggested repair figure includes: 31.80 hours labour at a labour rate of £65.00 per hour and a paint rate of £65.00 per hour, bringing the total nett labour charge to £2,067.00; a nett parts charge of £1,536.12; a nett specialist repair charge of £346.21; a nett paint and materials charge of £2,342.11; a nett sundries charge of £47.06.

CONDITION

We consider the vehicle's overall pre-incident condition, for it's age and type, to be Good.

Further examination of the vehicle's mechanics shows the following: Brakes: Satisfactory; Steering: Satisfactory.

ROADWORTHINESS and TEMPORARY REPAIRS

In our opinion, the vehicle was not roadworthy at the time of our inspection, due to: The damage sustained during the incident. We understand that the vehicle is not currently being used. We believe that temporary repairs would not be economical to make this vehicle roadworthy.

PRE-INCIDENT VALUE

According to the information available to us, the vehicle was first registered in March 2018.

Based upon the above information and the condition of the vehicle as described herein, we place the pre-incident valuation of this particular vehicle at £13,000.00. We would like to emphasize that this value is subject to consideration of the vehicle's registration documents, a purchase invoice, and any service records confirming the vehicle's identification and recorded odometer reading, if applicable. It should also be noted that we have not investigated whether there is any outstanding finance on the vehicle.

REPAIR RESERVE

We suggest that a repair reserve of £7,675.00 will be adequate to cover your liability in this matter, subject to any hidden and/or unforeseen damage.

OUTSTANDING/EXPECTED CHARGES

We are aware there is: an outstanding recovery charge of £300.00; the vehicle is accruing storage charges at a daily rate of £30.00.
